SPOKE ABOUT MONEY

TWO POLITICAL MEETINGS IN

MANCHESTER LAST NIGHT.

THE BOLTOCRATS SEEM YERY COLD. Messrs. Parr and Wise Fall to Arouse Any Enthusiasm-Mr. Fairchild, of California, Addresses the

The Beltocrats and Republicans had planned to have a great time in Man-chester last night. The occasion was to have been one after the fashion of "a feast of reason and flow of soul," but the result was reither a feast nor a flow so far as enthusiasm and concord are concerned. Two mass-meetings were held, one under the auspices of the Manchester Sound-Money Club, at Gibba's Hall, the other a straightout Republican gathering at Leader Hall. If the two bodies of en-and boys-had been assembled in Belvidere Hall the auditorium of that building might have been filled. speakers were Mr. Lee Fairchild, of California, who addressed the Republicans, und Messrs. D. Preston Parr and Barton Wise, who argued indirectly for Mc Kinley and Hobart. At the latter meeting there were about 110 persons, many of whom were operaives from the railroad shops in that city The audience was by no means a demon strative one. One or two Bryan mer were disposed to applaud whenever the mame of the Democratic nomines was mentloned, but this was not often. References to Grover Cleveland were both cheered and hissed, and one man, who claimed that he was a poor gold man, was disorderly, and was removed from the building by Chief-of-Police Lipscomb. These constituted tha features of the boltecratic meeting.

Mr. A. J. Daffron, president of the club, called the body to order at $30 o'clock.

called the body to order at 8:30 o'clock, and introduced as the first speaker Mr. D. Preston Parr, of Bedford City. M. Parr was greeted with some applause, and two or three times during the course of D. Preston Part, or Beindu this.

Part was greeted with some applause, and two or three times during the course of his remarks there was some knocking of feet and other evidences of applause, but in the main the audience, which grew thinner as the night wore on, was cold.

Arr. Part carefully discussed the questions of finance and tariff, the laws of supply and demand, and the importance of the preservation of the single gold standard. He spoke at some length upon the bearing of our financial polley upon the manufactories of the land, urgins that the producer of raw materials sold at the cheapest prices and bought at the highest. He cited an example in this conpection, by saying that a farmer sold his cotton at a given figure, but that when his product came from the loom he paid his cotton at a given figure, but that when his product came from the loom he paid a much higher price for it, and had it neede into a sarment. The silver dollar and its purchasing power came in for its share of consideration, it was of no benefit to the laboring people to give them a depreciated currency, when they would have to pay a higher price for everything they consumed. PROGRESS IN ARTIFICIALITIES.

The speaker said that he remembered when ice could not be bought for less than 5 cents a pound. It then went down to 4 cents. The great output from the Kennebec and other rivers then forced it down even below that figure, but soon the manufactured article was put upon the market, and now ice could be had for 40 cents a hindred. Mr. Parr said that the artificial article had driven out the artificial article had driven out al, and he went on to show that this ad not been the case with ice alone, Mr. Parr dealt at some length with the stion of immigration, saying that th resent condition of the country was argely due to the tremendous influx of aupers and broken-down criminals from parts of the world. "People pour into United States." declared the speaker The United States," declared the speaker,

"a great deal faster than employment can be proyided for them. I am not opposed to the proper sort of immigration."

Mr. Parr arguel that it made no differ-uce whether an ounce of gold was the nutralent of 16 ounces of silver or not. There was no rule by which the price of a commodity could be fixed by law. Mr. Parr held that we could not legislate a value for anything, therefore could not declare that 51 cents, worth of silver was worth a dollar in gold.

speaker concluded by saying that ha was opposed to both platform and housiness of the Chicago convention, and would cast his vote for Palmer and Buck.

MR. WISE'S SPEECH.

Mr. Parr's speech was followed by a brief address by Mr. Barton H. Wise, of Richmond, who spoke almost entirely upon the money question and the injunc-tion clause of the Democratic platform. went hurriedly over the free-silve part of the Chicago platform, and said this, however, was not his chief objec-tion to that paper. He was more op-posed to the clause with reference to injunctions, which, he asserted, was inspired by the Chicago riot, the bloodies this country had ever experienced. He spoke of President Cleveland's heroic acn in this hour of turmoil, and the ceived with both applause and hisses. This plank in the platform, said Mr. Wise, was a direct threat at the judiciary. Judges of courts were non made of mortal clay, and liable to err. They often made mistakes. They delivered at times the most abominable and miserable of but the judiciary should be as supreme. Mr. Wise said ed as supreme. Mr. Wise believed the income-tax decision believed the income-tax decision one. The people who owned was a wrong one. The people who owned burdens of the government.

There had been a great deal of talk, about the "dollar of our daddies," continued the speaker, who asserted that between the years 1833 and 1873. The re-ports from the Treasury Department rerding the amount of silver coined were ted from, and the personnel of the who spoke of Mr. Bryan as a "rat-tailed nule," as compared with the "thorough-oreds" with whom he was racing.

The Republican Speaking. The Republican meeting at Leader Hall was more largely attended than was that of the Foltocrats. The hall was romfortably filled, and many were un-able to get seats. Chairman B. B. Weiwhile to get seats. Chairman B. B. Wei-niger called the meeting to order at 8:20 o'clock, and introduced as "the next con-gressman from this district." Judge L. Lewis, who said he would be unabl to make a long speech, as he had an en-gagement in Richmond; but that, inasch as he was the nomince of the Rehlican party for Congress, he knew was expected to say something, and ould not disappoint the crowd. The eaker complimented Grover Cleveland, referring to him as the most brillian man in the Democratic party; but sale e did not altogether agree with Mr leveland on all questions, and especial-r in his last administration. Judge ewis referred briefly to the parties now in the field, and gradually brought his

GOLD AND THE LABORING MAN. The speaker then referred to the labor ing man, and asserted that his interests were certainly allied with the gold stand-ard. The present condition of the coun-try was pictured to the audience, and s speaker claimed that it was all due the last Democratic administration. our years ago jobs were hunting en," said the speaker, "but now men b hunting jobs." "And then we can't get them," interrupted a voice from the negro part of the hall.

After an interval, in which the band rendered music, Mr. Welsiger introduced Mr. Lee Fairchild, of California, who told many amusing anecdotes, but used very little argument. He said four years ago he made a Prohibition sneeth ago he made a Prohibition speech, and eince that time the Prohibition party had never been as large. He next belitted his oratorical powers in several highly amusing stories, and proceeded in Staun mmediately to win his way into the sym pathies of those who composed his ence. The speaker ridiculed the pr administration, and said the only left turning in the country was the Fer-ris wheel, at Chicago. He said the Dem-ocrats had one wheel turning now, however, and that was the free-silver whee which was turning in the Democratic coople's heads. Mr. Fairchild's had one good word for the Democratic people. He good word for the Democratic people. He said they were honest. Continuing, the speaker said: "They would rather go hungry and barefooted than admit that they were wrong, and all this because of their pride." The speaker asserted that when the Democratic parity was not up for repairs, the country was. "If the Democrats could all be banished to Patigonia," said the speaker, "what a gran-thing it would be. But, my! it would for Patigonia.

Mr. Fairchild did not enter into any further arguments, but, instead, used ludicrous stories to entertain his hearers. He is a good-natured speaker, and, though he insists upon perfect order, he has little trouble in securing it, as his speech is a chain of amusing anec dotes and illustrations. He speaks slow ly and never smiles, consequently his sayings are not only witty, but very dry

President Gardis and Cashler Girault in Prison. NEW ORLEANS, LA., September 26.

The grand jury held a special session this forencon, and at noon came into court and presented indictments against Henry Gardis, president, and Walter W. Girault, cashier, of the recently wrecked American National Bank. They are in-dicted under Act 108 of the Legislature of 1884. This act makes it a crime for any bank officer to receive deposits, or to contract any indebtedness for a bank-ing institution, when it is insolvent, or in a failing condition, and the penalty for violating the statute is punishment by imprisonment for not less than five years. Both men were arrested and were held in $1,000 bonds. They could not give the bonds, and are in the parish prison.

The action of Recorder Finnegan yesterday in fixing the bond of President Nichols and Cashier DeBianc, of the Bank of Commerce, at only $500, has been severely denounced on all sides today. This had the effect of causing the Recorder to reconsider his action, and he increased the bonds to $3,500 each. The bonds were signed, as on yesterday, by Chief-Justice Francis T. Nichols, of the Supreme Court of Louisiana, who is the uncle of the bank president. The action of the Chief Justice in gains on action of the Chief Justice in going on the bonds has been the subject of very unfavorable comment. It is remembered, however, that when the Chief Justice was Governor of the State, a few years ago, trifies like adverse criticism never phased General Nichols, and they ap-

THE BANCROFT AT FAYAL. She Proves Herself Fast-Alliance at Funchal. WASHINGTON, D. C., September

A cablegram received at the Navy Department this morning announced the arrival at Fayal, the Azores, of the little cruiser Bancroft yesterday, she having been just ten days at sea from New York. The officials of the department were highly gratified at the excellent passage made by the miniature cruiser, the shortest distance between the two points being 2,070 nautical miles, which gives the Bancroft an average speed for the voyage of fully 9 knots per hour. It is believed that she missed the severe storms of the early part of the week, which so seriously delayed transatlantic steamers on the more northerly routes After coaling at Horta, the port of Fayal, the Bancroft will probably re-sume her course to Gibraltar, only about 1,000 miles distant, and as for the shorter distance her speed can be safely in creased, her arrival there is looked fo next week. From Gibraltar she will at once proceed to Constantinople, where, little doubt is felt, permission to pass the Dardanelles will be awaiting her.
